

More than just mean girls: A Series on Relational Aggression

University of Minnesota

The Center for Excellence in Children's Mental Health and Institute of Child Development have partnered to develop the following series on the impact of relational aggression in the context of children's mental health.

Workshop #1 Lessons from the Field

November 30th, 2010 9:00 am – 12:30 pm

Nicki Crick, University of Minnesota

*What is relational aggression and how is it a problem?
Research from early childhood to adolescence*

Panel respondents: Dante Cicchetti, University of Minnesota and Diana Murray-Close, University of Vermont

Workshop #2 Lessons from the Field

February 8th, 2011 9:00 am – 12:30 pm

David Nelson, School of Family Life, Brigham Young University

Does relational aggression and its correlates vary across cultural contexts?

Workshop #3 Lessons from the Field

April 15, 2011 9:00 am – 12:30 pm

Stephen Leff, University of Pennsylvania and Children's Hospital of Pennsylvania

How do we prevent or intervene in relational aggression?

1:30 pm – 5:00 pm

Discussions of intervention strategies led by community professionals from various disciplines, contexts, and cultures

Sponsored by:

Center for Excellence in Children's Mental Health (CECMH) in partnership with:
Center for Advanced Studies in Child Welfare, UMN

Co-Sponsored by: Institute of Child Development, Center for Leadership Education in Maternal and Child Public Health and MN Adopt

All workshops will be held at Coffman Union Theater, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis Campus and broadcast to host sites in Greater Minnesota.

For additional information or to register go to: <http://www.cmh.umn.edu>.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA | EXTENSION

Driven to DiscoverSM